This title can be awarded only at the shows awarding the CAC title.

Club winner 2017 (male a female)

The Best male dog and the Best female dog chosen from the competition of Excellent 1 – CAC from the intermediate, open, working and winner classes.

Best of Opposite Sex (BOS)

This competition is entered by the Best Junior male dog (CAJC) or Best Junior female dog (CAJC), the Best Veteran male dog (V1 from Veteran Class) or Best Veteran female dog (V1 from Veteran Class), and Best Adult dogs male or female (Club winner) of the opposite sex than the winner of BOB.

Best of juniors (BOJ)

This title can be awarded to the Best Junior male or female dog which reached the title CAJC in the competition of juniors.

Best of veterans (BOV)

This title can be awarded to a male or a female dog that received Excellent 1 in the Veteran class.

Candidate of IHF Champion

In competition for the certificate are participating all dogs having received the judgement “Excellent 1” in adult class, including “Excellent 1” / “1st place” in the veteran class. The youth class is not competing. Separately for male and female. A separate competition has to take place for the certificates for IHF-Championship. No reserve certificates are available. The owner of the dog has to be member of an IHF-member-club. The owner of the participating dog has to prove his membership at the day of the show.

Competitions

The best couple

This competition can be entered by a male dog and a female dog that have been evaluated at the show and are in the ownership of one owner.

The best breeder's group

The breeder can appoint minimally three and maximally five dogs coming from his own litters, from different parents (min. two different sirs or mothers) and the individuals were evaluated at the show. These dogs do not have to be in the ownership of the breeder.

The best stud dog

This competition is for the stud dogs with at least 5 progenies that were evaluated at the show. The judges evaluate the type and quality of the litter. The stud dog does not have to be assessed at the show.

Classes
